Good Stuff:
It becomes you

good stuff: it becomes you

Your good health demands access to food -and information- that is real, unadulterated and free of toxic additives. It also requires good choices. Good Stuff by Mom & Me is a convenient, delicious way to get started.

good stuff is raw

Large-scale food marketing – supported by urban and metropolitan lifestyles - relies on the preservation and shipping of foods. Processing methods that increase shelf life are often at odds with life's biological demands. Chemical additives, heating and segmenting removes indispensable nutrients, phytochemicals and enzymes from your foods. Eating depleted foods leads to depleted health. Consuming raw, organic foods makes sense. It is environmentally friendly (produces little waste at low energy cost), socially friendly (supports farmers, not corporate processors), healing and health supporting.

good stuff is quality

You don't need an interpreter to understand our ingredient list: neither does your body. Ingredients are organically grown, non-irradiated & free of genetically engineered approximations. To enhance digestibility and nutrient availability all nuts and most seeds are soaked (germinated) and dehydrated below 105° F.

good stuff is a way of life

Special Diet? All of our ingredients are vegan & gluten-free. Dried fruit is our only sweetener.

Mom & Me: Our Story

Mom & I have spent over 22 years improving the quality of our food choices; we started from the Standard American Diet (SAD). The last 7 years - eating a primarily raw diet - have amazed us with improvements. We have experienced the body's inherent ability to heal 'chronic' problems. We look and feel more vital than we ever knew possible; people insist my mom is my sister! This is no miracle, just a daily practice of giving the body its proper fuel. We were taught to accept degenerative disease as a natural process of aging, but we don't believe that anymore. If THIS is possible what ELSE is?

Good Stuff: Our Mission

It is possible to retain AND reclaim your health. Good Stuff by Mom & Me is a helping hand in that direction. Nature boasts a whole lot more - a fruit and vegetable rainbow of opportunity - to encourage us to take good care, one bite at a time.

Take the First Step

Confused about what to eat and how to eat it? Don't let that keep you from enjoying health & vitality! Aggressive marketing sells confusion by encouraging consumers to find health on a label rather than in whole foods. Despite the perplexity, most nutrition experts actually agree on the benefits of:

- Eating more fresh fruits & vegetables
- Cutting out white flour & sugar, fast food, hydrogenated fat, processed food, caffeine, MSG & other chemical additives
- Hydrating
- Eating moderate portions
- Exercising regularly

If you feel it all gets murky from here, focusing on these goals will almost certainly improve your health. Every bite is an opportunity. Life is good stuff: Eat it up!

Raw Ingredients Snack and recipe-ready

Recipe-Ready Nuts & Seeds Ready to eat or make treats of your own! These nuts and seeds have been germinated to increase digestibility and low-temp dried to preserve nutrient availability.

Celtic Sea Salt This coarse, grey, mineral-rich salt – dried by sun & wind – is hand-harvested and completely unprocessed! Even most other "sea salts" have been stripped of healthful properties by processing. Iodized salt is chemically treated to flow freely & bleached for whiteness: like all processed salts it is highly toxic.

REALLY Raw Carob Powder

Most carob powders (even those marketed as raw!) have been lightly roasted. This one IS raw: the sun-dried pods are low-temp ground. This powder is slightly more granular than what you might be used to, but it is wonderful in use. Carob is naturally sweet, extremely high in calcium & phosphorus, with a healthy trace of iron!
